

FUNMI HAASTRUP

FOUNDER & PRINCIPAL

K12 Equity Consulting, LLC.

Funmi Hastrup, founder and principal of K12 Equity Consulting, LLC, has more than 15 years of professional experience for developing a knack for taking disparate and complicated pieces of data and processes and making coherent meaning and structure out of them so that organizations are empowered to make decisions that lead to success.

Haastrup has used this analytical skill in the education space to help school districts have a clearer view into how well (or not) their use of resources aligns with their strategic goals and offered recommendations on how to realign those resources to improve student outcomes. As an education consultant, Hastrup has influenced how billions of budget dollars are spent, impacting the education experience of thousands of children.

Haastrup brings these analytical skills along with a passion for equity to the work done at Equity Journey Partners. Her analytical skills help bring facts and clarity to issues that are sometimes hard to articulate. District staff often have inclination about the areas where the district is strong and where it needs improvement.

The difficulty often lies in connecting the dots to pinpoint root causes because the data is often available in siloes. She also takes an interconnected and holistic view of all available information in helping organizations reach their goals.
